

PAE Recruitment Fraud Awareness

Recruitment fraud continues to be a serious issue in today's job market. Recruitment fraud may involve offering fictitious job opportunities, requesting personal information and payment requests to process false applications. These fraudulent activities are a global concern that PAE takes seriously.

Recruitment fraud is normally done through online services from sites that do not belong to, or are not associated with, PAE. This fraudulent activity can also be delivered via emails that request recipients to provide their personal information to process false applications.

Official communications regarding employment opportunities will always come from a @pae.com registered email address.

No applicant for employment with PAE is ever required to pay any money as part of the job application process.

Please contact jobs@pae.com if there is any question as to the legitimacy of the offer.

There are several ways to identify and prevent these fraudulent recruiting campaigns. Some of the warning signs are:

- Requests for personal information
- Requests for money
- Requests for information about other companies or individuals.
- An offer to pay a percentage of the fees requested if the candidate pays a certain amount to process the application.
- An overwhelming sense of urgency for the applicant to act immediately.

Please take the following steps if you feel you are the target of recruitment fraud:

- Do not respond to the solicitor.
- Do not send any money or provide any private information.
- File an incident report at: <http://www.cybercrime.gov>,
- Call the FTC at: 1-877-FTC-HELP (1-877-382-4357).
- File a complaint with the FBI at: <https://ic3.gov>
- Contact your local police to report the fraud.
- Contact your bank or credit card company to close the account and dispute the charges if payment was made.
